

List of contributors

Jean-Yves Haine

Belgian. Research Fellow at the European Union Institute for Security Studies. Formerly Visiting Fellow at the Government Department, Harvard University (1997-1999), lecturer at the IEP Paris (1993-1997), and journalist at Courrier International (1990-1993). Doctorate in Political Science, Institut d'Etudes Politiques (IEP Paris), Master's Degree in International Relations from the University of Sorbonne (Paris) and a degree in Law, University of Louvain (Belgium). His last book, Les Etats-Unis ont-ils besoin d'allies?, was published by Payot in January 2004.

Lisbet Zilmer-Johns

Danish. Visiting Scholar at the Danish Institute for International Studies. Head of Section, Danish Ministry of Foreign Affairs 1992-2001. Master of Political Science, Dept. of Political Science, University of Copenhagen (1992). M.Sc., London School of Economics (1991).

Major General Graham Messervy-Whiting (CBE)

British. Deputy Director of the Centre for Studies in Security and Diplomacy at the University of Birmingham. In 2000 Graham Messervy-Whiting was selected by High Representative Javier Solana to set up a permanent Military Staff for the European Union. He completed his tour as its first Chief of Staff in 2003. During his career in the British army, he served (from 1992-1993) as Defence Adviser on former Yugoslavia to Lord Owen, as Director, Defence Commitments Staff of the British Ministry of Defence (1994) and as Chief of Staff of the Western European Union (1995-1998). From 1998 to 2000 he was Assistant Director of Operations at GCHQ.

Daniel Keohane

Irish. Research Fellow for security & defence policy at the Centre for European Reform in London. He was previously a Visiting Research Fellow at the European Union Institute for Security Studies in Paris; and a Research Associate at the Institute for National Strategic Studies, National Defense University, in Washington D.C. He also worked at the Aspen Institute in Berlin. He holds a MA in International Relations from the Johns Hopkins University School of Advanced International Studies (SAIS Bologna/Washington), and a BA in History from Trinity College Dublin. He also studied at the University of Heidelberg.

Andrzej Karkoszka

Polish. Senior Political Advisor at the Geneva Centre for the Democratic Control of Armed Forces. Previously Professor in Defence and Security Studies Department at the Marshall Centre in Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany. Expert in the Chancellery of the President of Poland (1991-1992). Polish Ministry of National Defence, serving several years as Secretary of State-First Deputy Minister of Defence (1992-1998). Ph.D. in Political Science from the Polish Institute of International Affairs (1977).

Daniel Hamilton

American. Richard von Weizsäcker Professor at the Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies (SAIS), Johns Hopkins University. Director of the SAIS Center for Transatlantic Relations and Executive Director of the American Consortium on EU Studies. Publisher of Transatlantic magazine. Former Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for European Affairs, responsible for U.S. policy towards NATO and also ESDP, and Associate Director of the Policy Planning Staff. Dr. Hamilton has served as Senior Associate on European-American relations at the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace; Deputy Director of the Aspen Institute Berlin; and Program Officer for the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations, and also taught at the Free University of Berlin and the University of Innsbruck. He has a Ph.D. and M.A. from the Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies. He received his B.S.F.S. from Georgetown University's School of Foreign Service.

Anja Dalgaard-Nielsen

Danish. Research Fellow at the Danish Institute for International Studies and Non-Resident Fellow at the Center for Transatlantic Relations, Johns Hopkins University School of Advanced International Studies (SAIS). Associate Professor at Denmark's International Study Program (DIS), University of Copenhagen. She has previously worked as the Washington analyst and coordinator for the Aspen Institute Berlin and as freelance writer for the German daily Die Welt. She holds a Ph.D. from Johns Hopkins University School of Advanced International Studies (SAIS), an MA in European Studies and International Economics from the same school and a BA/MA in Political Science from the University of Aarhus.

Jess Pilegaard (Editor)

Danish. Researcher at the Danish Institute for International Studies. He is currently working on a Ph.D. project on the European Union as an international actor. Pilegaard is on leave from the Danish Ministry of Foreign Affairs, where he served as Head of Section (1998-2002). He has a Master of Political Science, Dept. of Political Science from the University of Copenhagen.

