

INDEX

- Allende, Isabel, 99, 103 (see also Cognitive Frameworks and political party loyalist); and arrest of Pinochet, 73; and China, 72; and the Christian Democratic Party, 77–78; and loss of community, 75–77; and coup d'état of 1973, 72 (see also Coup d'état of 1973); and Cuba, 72–73 (see also Sixties Generation and the Cuban Revolution); and exile in Mexico, 74–75 (see also Exile); and familial political identity, 71, 75, 77; and party loyalty, 79; and the plebiscite of 1988, 76–77 (see also Democracy, transition to); and the Socialist party (PSCH), 72–73, 77; and the transition to democracy, 76–77 (see also Democracy, transition to); and the USSR, 72
- Allende, Salvador, xi, 18; Allendismo, 101, 103, 107; election of, 27; fall of, 12; legacy of, 101–105 (see also Democracy, transition to); and the Socialist Party, 104–109
- Allendismo. See Allende, Salvador
- Aylwin, Patricio, xi, 53
- Canto, Hernán Del, 102–103, 109, 190 (see also Cognitive Frameworks and personal loyalist); and Allendismo, 110–111; and class, 110 (see also Political Identity and class); and the coup d'état of 1973, 112–114 (see also Coup d'état of 1973); and the labor movement, 109 (see also Labor Movement); and Popular Unity period, 110; and the Socialist Party (PSCH), 109, 112, 116; and the transition to democracy, 115 (see also Democracy, transition to)
- Chamber of Deputies (Chilean), 142–143 (see also Antonio Leal)
- Christian Democratic Party, 15, 29, 187; and the Popular Unity government, 38
- Christian left, 15
- Cognitive Frameworks, xiii, 2, 4, 25 125–126, 129, 147, 184–185 (see also Political Identity); personal loyalist, xiii, 2, 20, 25, 35, 50, 100, 103, 126, 153, 190; political entrepreneur, xiii, 2, 22–24, 34, 60, 99, 152–154, 184, 194 (see also Exile and ideological transformation; Democracy, transition to); political party loyalist, xiii, 2, 20, 23–24, 59–60, 100, 126, 128, 153, 189; political thinker, xiii, 2, 20, 23–24, 34, 99, 127, 182
- Cohen, Jean, 6 (see also Identity Debates)
- Communist party (PCCH), 14, 23, 30, 187; and exile, 46–47; and

- Pinochet, 42; and the Popular Unity victory, 38; and the Socialist Workers Party, 31–32
- Concertación. See Democracy, transition to
- Constitution of 1980, 41; and the left, 49
- Contreras, Fernando (see also Cognitive Frameworks, political thinker); and the Communist party (PCCH), 146; and exile in East Germany, 146–147 (see also Exile); and ideological discontinuity, 149–150 (see also Exile and ideological transition); and the Leipzig Group, 148–149, 192; and the psychology of party identity, 150–151
- Correa, Enrique (see also Cognitive Frameworks, political entrepreneur); and the Catholic Church, 170–171; and the Christian Democratic Party, 171, 173; and exile, 173 (see also Exile); and political pragmatism, 173–175; and the transition to democracy, 170, 174 (see also Democracy, transition to); and the United Popular Action Movement (MAPU), 170, 172; and the United Popular Action Movement-Worker Peasant Party (MAPU-OC), 172
- Coup D'état of 1973, xi, 2, 27–28, 40, 119, 123, 189, 198 (see also Political Identity, exile and traumatic events); and education, 15
- Cuban Revolution. See Sixties Generation and the Cuban Revolution
- Democracy, transition to, 150, 187, 190; and Allendismo, 109; and Communism, 99; and Concertación, 2; and fear, 187–188; and national reconciliation, 199; and the plebiscite of 1988, 51–54, 105 (see also Augusto Pinochet); and political entrepreneurs, 185 (see also Political Identity and political entrepreneur); and the politics of consensus, 195; and the shift in popular discourse, 57; and Socialism, 195–196; and totalizing ideologies, 188; and voter participation, 55, 188
- Dominguez, Virginia, xv
- Education. See Palma, Aníbal and education reforms; Coup d'état of 1973 and education; Political Identity
- Erikson, Erik, 114 (see also Identity Debates); and individual identity formation, xv, 3, 8, 12
- Exile (see also Political Identity); and differing experiences (locations), 45, 129, 133, 138–139; and ideological transformation, 129 (see also Political Identity, continuity and discontinuity of); and living in memory, 147 (see also Political Identity and memory); and public/private dichotomy, 128–129, 131, 138, 147, 165, 169; and the Socialist left, 48–49
- Frei, Eduardo, Jr., 54
- Frei, Eduardo, Sr., 18, 37; and Salvador Allende, 33
- Frohlich, Norman, 5 (see also Identity Debates)
- Geertz, Clifford, xv
- Gramsci, Antonio, 135–137, 140–141, 144, 180
- Habermas, Jürgen, 6, 8 (see also Identity Debates)

- Hardy, Clarisa (see also Cognitive Frameworks, political entrepreneur); and exile in Mexico, 164–157 (see also Exile); and feminist thought, 11; and grassroots organizing, 168; and the Party for Democracy (PPD), 168 (see also Party for Democracy); and the Popular Unity administration, 164; and religion, 162–163; and the Socialist Party (PSCH), 11, 163, 192; and the transition to democracy, 167 (see also Democracy, transition to)
- Identity Debates, 9 (see also Cohen, Jean; Habermas, Jürgen; Laitin, David); and identitarian approach, 3, 5–12; and rational-choice theory, xiv–xv, xvii, 3 (see also Monroe, Kristen Renwick; Frohlich, Norman)
- Insulza, José Miguel (see also Cognitive Frameworks, political entrepreneur); and Chile's international relations, 183; and the Christian Democratic Party, 181; and the coup d'état of 1973, 182 (see also Coup D'état of 1973); and the exile community, 183; and exile in Italy and Mexico, 183 (see also Exile); and the Pinochet arrest, 180; and the sixties generation, 181–182 (see also Sixties Generation); and the United Popular Action Movement (MAPU), 182; and the United Popular Action Movement-Worker Peasant Party (MAPU-OC), 182
- Insunza, Jorge, 99, 189–190 (see also Cognitive Frameworks, political party loyalist); and Communist ideology, 63–67; and the Communist Party (PCCH), 62–63, 68; and Cuba, 68 (see also Sixties Generation and the Cuban Revolution); and democracy and the PCCH, 68; and democracy and the PSCH, 68; and the defeat of the Popular Unity government, 66 (see also Political Identity, exile and traumatic events); and exile in East Germany and Moscow (see Exile); and neoliberalism, 68–70 (see also Neoliberalism); and party loyalty, 70
- Labor Movement, 31–33, 35–36, 190; and the 1925 Chilean labor code, 31
- Lagos, Ricardo, xii, 198; and Andrés Zaldívar, 198
- Laitin, David, 7 (see also Identity Debates)
- Leal, Antonio (see also Cognitive Frameworks and political thinker); and Tony Blair, 143; and the Chilean Chamber of Deputies, 142–143; and the Communist Party (PCCH), 136, 139–141; and Cuba, 136 (see also Sixties Generation and the Cuban Revolution); and democracy, 144 (see also Democracy, transition to); and exile, 138–139 (see also Exile); and Antonio Gramsci, 135–137, 140–141, 144; and neoliberalism, 145 (see also Neoliberalism); and socialism, 196; and transition to democracy, 142 (see also Democracy, transition to)
- Leipzig Group. See Contreras, Fernando
- Leninism, xvii, 28, 33
- Maira, Luis (see also Cognitive Frameworks and political thinker); and the Christian Left (IC) 130–131,

- 134 (see also Christian Left); and the coup d'état of 1973, 131 (see also Coup D'état of 1973); and exile in Mexico, 132 (see also Exile); and ideological continuity, 134 (see also Political Identity and continuity and discontinuity of); and the role of the state, 135; and the Socialist party (PSCH), 131, 134
- Mannheim, Karl, xiv
- MAPU. See United Popular Action Movement
- Memory. See Political Identity and memory
- MIR. See Revolutionary Left Movement
- Modernization (see also Oliva, Raul); Chilean debates, 192–197; as ideology, 194
- Monroe, Kristen Renwick, 4, 9 (see also Identity Debates)
- Muñoz, Adriana, 99 (see also Cognitive Frameworks, political party loyalist); and the Communist Party (PCCH), 81; and community identity, 80; and Cuba, 82 (see also Sixties Generation and the Cuban Revolution); and exile in Austria, 83 (see also Exile); and the Federation of Socialist Women, 83; and feminist thought, 79, 84; and grassroots organizing, 80; and the Party for Democracy, 79, 85; and political party militancy, 82; and socialism, 84; and the Socialist Party (PSCH), 83, 85
- Neoliberalism, 1 (see also Insunza, Jorge and neoliberalism; Pinochet, Augusto and neoliberal reorganization; Leal, Antonio and neoliberalism)
- New Left, 23, 34 (see also United Popular Action Movement; Christian left; Revolutionary Left Movement); and the Catholic left, 34; emergence of, 33
- Oliva, Raul (see also Cognitive Frameworks and political entrepreneur); and the Communist party (PCCH), 154–156, 158, 160; and the coup d'état of 1973, 157–158 (see also Coup D'état of 1973); and exile in Europe, 155, 158 (see also Exile); and individual identity, 160 (see also Exile and ideological transformation; Political Identity, continuity and discontinuity of); and modernization, 192 (see also Modernization, Chilean Debates); and party identity, 157; and socialism, 161–162; and the Socialist Party (PSCH), 155, 161; and the transition to democracy, 160 (see also Democracy, transition to)
- Palma, Aníbal, 19, 102–103, 109, 190 (see also Cognitive Frameworks and personal loyalist); and Allendismo, 116–117, 120 (see also Allende); and education reforms, 117–119 (see also Coup d'état of 1973); and exile in (former) West Germany, 120 (see also Exile); and the Popular Unity coalition, 117; and the Radical Party, 117 (see also Radical Party); and the Socialist party (PSCH), 120
- Party for Democracy (PPD), 16, 168, 187
- Passerini, Luisa, xviii (see also Political Identity and memory)
- PCCH. See Communist Party
- Pinochet, Augusto, xi, 2; arrest of, xi, 198; and the Communist Party (PCCH), 42; and the 1980 constitution, 41; and the 1980s economic

- crisis, 49; and National Days of Protest, 50; and neoliberal reorganization, 41–43; and the plebiscite of 1988, 51–54; and the technocratic conception of power, 42; and the transition to democracy, 50 (see also Democracy, transition to)
- Plebiscite of 1988. See Democracy, transition to; Pinochet, Augusto
- Political Identity, xiii–xv, 188 (see also Cognitive Frameworks); and class, xiv, 13, 190; collective political identity, 7, 28, 31, 36, 102–103, 107; comparison of identities, 22; continuity and discontinuity of, 59, 103, 126, 134, 184, 189; and education, 13, 15–16; exile and traumatic events, xii–xiv, 18, 23–24, 28, 40–41, 114–115, 127, 151; and family, xiv, 4, 14; and generation, xiv (see also Sixties Generation); and ideology, 1; individual political identity, 12; and (individual and collective) memory, 26, 29, 168, 194; and political party, 16–17
- Popular Unity (UP), xi, 2, 19, 25, 27, 36, 189; defeat of, 40–41 (see also Coup d'état); internal conflicts, 38–40; and the Socialist Party (PSCH), 105; victory of, 37–40
- PPD. See Party for Democracy
- PSCH. See Socialist Party
- Radical Party, 15, 117; and the Popular Unity victory, 38
- Revolutionary Left Movement (MIR), 15; and Socialist Party, 34
- Reyes, Eduardo, 27, 46, 102, 109, 190 (see also Cognitive Frameworks and personal loyalist); and Allendismo, 10, 120–121, 123 (see also Allende, Salvador); and Concertación, 125 (see also Democracy, transition to); and the coup d'état of 1973, 123 (see also Coup D'état of 1973); and exile, 124 (see also Exile); and the Popular Unity period, 121; and the Revolutionary Left Movement (MIR), 122; and the Russian Revolution, 124; and the Socialist Party (PSCH), 121–122; and the transition to democracy, 124 (see also Democracy, transition to)
- Rivas, Patricio, 43, 100 (see also Cognitive Frameworks and political party loyalist); arrest of, 91–92; and Catholicism, 96; and community identity, 86; and the coup d'état of 1973, 88–90 (see also Coup D'état of 1973); and Cuba, 87, 90 (see also Sixties Generation and the Cuban Revolution); and exile, 93 (see also Exile); and ideological identity, 97; imprisonment of, 93; and political party militancy, 88; and the Revolutionary Left Movement (MIR), 86–87, 90, 92, 94–95, 190–191
- Sixties Generation, xii, xvi, 1, 3, 12, 29, 98; and the Cuban Revolution, 17, 30, 36; and Marxism, 36; and Salvador Allende, 18; and Vatican II, 17, 30
- Socialist Party (PSCH), xii, 14, 16, 23, 30, 32, 47, 103, 187; and Allende's legacy, 104–109; and the Popular Unity victory, 38; and the Socialist Republic of 1932, 32; and the Young Socialists, 27
- Speir, Hans. See Political Identity, exile and traumatic events
- United Popular Action Movement (MAPU), 15, 34, 108

- United Popular Action Movement-
Worker Peasant Party (MAPU-OC),
34, 179
- Viera-Gallo, José Antonio (see also Cognitive Frameworks and political entrepreneur); and the Catholic Church, 177; and exile (Vatican),
177–178 (see also Exile); and Antonio
Gramsci, 180; and liberalism, 179;
and modernization, 193 (see also Modernization, Chilean debates); and political pragmatism, 176; and the Popular Unity government, 177;
and the United Popular Action
Movement (MAPU), 177; and the
United Popular Action Movement-
Worker Peasant Party, 179