Acknowledgments

The author would like to acknowledge the many individuals who have made this book possible. Particular thanks are owed to those whose contributions went beyond the call of duty and whose guidance put me on a path to other valuable sources: Bob Asman, Bob Barnett, Rick Berke, David Broder, Janet Brown, Marty Brownstein, Hal Bruno, Diana Carlin, Steve Chaggaris, Steve Doocy, Ed Fouhy, Bob Goodwin, James Hoge, Mickey Kantor, Joshua King, Jim Lehrer, Richard C. Leone, Barry Paris, Marty Plissner, Sam Popkin, Adam Rosman, Kevin Sauter, Carole Simpson, Margaret Warner, Brady Williamson, and Judy Woodruff. I also thank Claire Denzler and Hank Price at WBBM in Chicago, Roma Hare at WETA in Washington, D.C., and Erin O'Connor at NBC New York.

I am indebted to Gary Orren and Marvin Kalb, my professors at the John F. Kennedy School of Government, as well as Pippa Norris of the Harvard International Journal of Press/Politics, for their encouragement.

Thanks, too, to the staffs of the various libraries and archives used in my

My grateful appreciation goes to Ann Miller of Columbia University Press for her confidence and direction during the writing process. I also thank Liz Hartman, Anne McCoy, and Ron Harris of Columbia University Press and Rita Bernhard for her invaluable editorial suggestions.

Finally, I would like to thank my colleagues at Northeastern University in Boston. This project was generously supported by a research and development grant from the Office of the Provost and by faculty development stipends from the School of Journalism. Thanks to Dean James Stellar and associate deans Malcolm Hill and Kay Onan in the College of Arts and Sciences, and, most particularly, my compatriots in the School of Journalism: Belle Adler, Nicholas Daniloff, Charles Fountain, William Kirtz, Laurel Leff, Gladys McKie, and James Ross. Your support and friendship are deeply appreciated.
